State Highway Work May Be Postponed By Priorities Board

Vast Projects in State May Be Abandoned During Defense

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Postponement of approximately $3,000,000 worth of highway construction planned by the state appeared likely today as a result of the federal priorities board's policy decree against new construction making unnecessary use of materials vital to defense and public health and safety.

Walter A. Rosenfield, state public works and buildings director, said he believed the decree would force temporary abandonment of projected road construction which has not been designated as vital to national defense by the federal government.

The director said he believed that roads designed to provide access to government defense factories and military establishments would not be affected. Rosenfield said the decisions on which projects would be shelved for the time being awaited more definite information from Washington.

C. W. Macardell, assistant state architect, said it was possible that the new policy pronouncement by the priorities board would delay construction of a $600,000 addition to the Southern Illinois State Normal School at Carbondale. Bids for the new building have been taken, but they were rejected by the division of architecture and engineering as too high.

May Be Seriously Affected
Aside from the Carbondale project and the non-defense highway plans, the state's building program was not expected to be seriously affected, officials said. The public welfare department's building program has been confined during

2 Former Convicts Suspects in Miley Murders Are Held

Fort Worth, Tex., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Two ex-convicts were held today as suspects in the slaying of Marion Miley, 27-year-old nationally known golf star, and her mother at a fashionable Lexington, Ky., country club Sept. 28.

Sheriff Ernest Thompson and Police Chief Austin B. Price of Lexington started for Fort Worth after receiving a telephone description of the men last night.

Detective Capt. A. E. Dowell of Fort Worth said Thompson told him "they're the men we're looking for."

At Lexington Thompson declined to discuss the arrests.

The men who gave their ages as 32 and 43 signed waivers of extradition.

Both Deny Murder
They were arrested Wednesday night by Detectives Theron Brooks and N. E. Smith whose suspicions were aroused by a Kentucky license on their car. Police identified the license number as that of an automobile reported stolen from a Louisville night club operator.

Both men denied any knowledge of the slaying of Miss Miley and her mother. They declared they had left Lexington Sept. 30, had gone to Florida and from there to Texas.

A former Fort Worth pugilist and ex-convict and a Fort Worth woman were arrested with them. The woman was released but the ex-pugilist, who told officers he came from Jacksonville, Fla., with the suspects, was detained.

Tank Production for Army Facing Stoppage Tonight

By The Associated Press

Stoppage of the army's tank production was said by war department officials today to be threatened by a CIO-AFL jurisdictional dispute involving the Spicer Manufacturing Company at Toledo, Ohio, and its subsidiary, the Hillsdale (Mich.) Steel Products Company.

The Spicer company makes 70 per cent of the transmissions for all the army's tanks and also for most of the half-tractor and "jeep" combat vehicles.

Officials at Washington said the trouble started at Hillsdale with a jurisdictional dispute between rival A.F.L. and C.I.O. automobile workers. The A.F.L. union won a National Labor Relations board bargaining election but rowing continued and the plant was closed temporarily this week by request of local officials.

The matter reached a climax when C.I.O. United Automobile Workers, who have a contract with Spicer, decreed that they would not handle parts from the Hillsdale concern, where the A. F. L. is the authorized bargaining agency.

Steel Strike Ends
Spicer officials reported to the war department that unless the C. I. O. boycott were discontinued, the company would have to halt work on transmissions for the "half-tracks" and "jeeps" and that materials were on hand for only about a week's further manufacture of parts for tanks.

All major units of the Fairfield Steel Works at Birmingham, Ala., were put back into operation last night and the Tennessee Coal, Iron & Railroad Company declared the mills, largest in the south, would be kept open. C. I. O. steel workers passed through the picket lines of A. F. L. machinists and

AT FULL STRENGTH

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—The state highway police force was increased to its full strength of 350 men today when 126 new troopers were graduated from the training school and given their badges by Chief Leo E. Carr.

The 126 new officers will join 96 others who were graduated from the first training school last August and assigned to posts in various sections of the state. Governor Green addressed the graduating class.

Edward Price Richards Becomes Miss Barbara Richards by Order of Court

Los Angeles, Oct. 10.—(AP)—By Superior court order, Edward Price Richards, 29, became Barbara Ann Richards, with full legal rights of womanhood.

After Miss Richards, with lips rouged and hair curled and wearing a tight-fitting sweater, testified that her sex characteristics had changed from those of a man to a woman, Judge Emmet H. Wilson granted her petition for the change of name.

She said she was married at Yuma, Ariz., Nov. 18 to Lorraine Wilcox of Los Angeles but added the marriage was not consummated and that an annulment will be sought at once.

"At that time I was still struggling very hard to remain a man, and I did not realize just what I was going through," she testified.

New President of Panama to Aid in American Defense

Coup D'Etat Makes No Change in Relations With United States

Panama, Oct. 10.—(AP)—A coup d'etat government pledged to collaboration in continental defense is reconsidering an order issued Monday by ousted President Arnulfo Arias which barred the arming of merchant ships flying Panama's flag.

A cabinet member said last night that some decision on the question — which affects many United States-owned vessels shifted to Panama registry because of the neutrality act to carry war supplies to Britain — might be announced today.

Ricardo Adolfo De La Guardia, the new President sworn in late yesterday as the republic's third chief executive in one eventful day after disclosure that Arias had flown to Cuba, issued a statement declaring his government "will be inspired by the most absolute sentiments of collaboration in defense of the continent, maintaining always national dignity and the greatest respect for contractual obligations with the government of the United States."

(Informed Washington sources said the United States would regard De La Guardia as the constitutional leader of Panama. There is no question of recognition, they said, since the shift followed constitutional procedure without disorder.)

Praised by Predecessor
(On a lecture tour in Paducah, Ky., Dr. Ricardo Alfaro, former President of Panama, said the new President was an honest and uncompromising man and forecast improvement in Washington-Panama relations. He described the Arias presidency as "a product of imposition and dictatorship."

De La Guardia, a man of pronounced pro-democratic leanings, was minister of justice in the cabinet of Arias, who was accused by political opponents here of Nazi leanings.

Several of Arias' followers were under precautionary arrest. (In Havana Arias said he was surprised at the overthrow of his government; that he had flown to Cuba for eye treatments and was trying to telephone the new executive to learn whether he could return to "to the country I love")

Cancer Deaths in Illinois Increase

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Dr. Roland R. Cross, state health director, announced today the organization of a new state tumor diagnostic service to combat an increase in the number of cancer deaths in Illinois.

State funds will be provided to subsidize cancer diagnostic clinics in local hospitals. Dr. Cross said. The service was started early this month in Springfield Memorial hospital and similar projects were reported under consideration in Rockford, Peoria and DuQuoin.

The health department said that 4,813 deaths from cancer were reported for the first five months of this year, compared with 4,589 for the first five months of 1940.

The state aid will be in the form of salary allowances for highly skilled technical workers in local hospitals. Each state-subsidized tumor project will be required to provide the diagnostic and consultant services of a qualified surgeon, a trained radiologist and X-ray operator and a specialist in matters concerning the nature, causes and progress of cancer.

Private physicians may refer their patients without charge to the state-subsidized diagnostic clinic, Dr. Cross said.

Oregon Patricide, Facing Life Term, Pleads for Pardon

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—A heavy docket of 55 pardon applications, including those of 27 persons serving long terms for murder, are scheduled to be heard Tuesday, Oct. 14, by the state board of pardons. The board will hear attorneys and others appearing in behalf of the applicants.

The case involving the lightest sentence is that of Emma Martha Frohne, who applied for a pardon from a petty larceny conviction for which she was fined $1 and sentenced to one day in the Cook county house of correction.

Applicants seeking pardons on murder convictions include George Gronewald of Ogle county.

CROWELL OBJECTS

State's Attorney S. Donald Crowell of Ogle county informed The Telegraph this morning that he had filed with the state board of pardons the county's objections to granting a parole to Gronewald, aged 53, who was sentenced to life imprisonment in Ogle county Circuit court at Oregon, June 27, 1931 for the poison death of his father.

Painting in Loveland Community House Chas. R. Walgreen Memorial

"Red Canas", a painting sketched in Palm Beach by Miss Jane Peterson, New York artist, was presented to the Loveland Community House last evening, by Mrs. Charles R. Walgreen, in memory of her late husband, a cousin of the artist. The picture is to be hung in the "ladies" lounge.

Presentation of Mrs. Walgreen's gift took place on the birthday anniversary of the late Mr. Walgreen, during a benefit program given at the civic center to aid Boy Scout troop No. 89, F. X. Newcomer, whose late wife was a sister of Mr. Walgreen, accepted the painting in behalf of the board of trustees.

Approximately 20 guests were in attendance, enjoying Mrs. Walgreen's kodachrome pictures of "Hazelwood" gardens through the four seasons. The speakers' informal account of her gardening efforts gave additional pleasure to her audience.

Harold Cook introduced Mrs. Walgreen.

Boy Scout Is Fatally Hurt on Unsanctioned Outing in Waterloo

East St. Louis, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Boy Scout Arnold Oerter, 15, died of a wound in the forehead last night several hours after he participated with other Scouts in firing rifles at a farm near Waterloo, Ill.

The boys were firing into the air in a game after dark when young Oerter was hit. He was a freshman at Waterloo high school. Dr. C. C. Kane, St. Clair county coroner, said the shooting appeared to be accidental.

R. L. Thompson, Boy Scout executive, began an investigation. He said the overnight outing was unauthorized.

Foes of Neutrality Revision See Ship Arming Only Start

Fear Wider Proposals; Will Fight Arming on That Ground

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Congressional opponents of neutrality law revision decided today they would have to wage an all-out fight against President Roosevelt's request for authority to arm shipping, even though some in their ranks were not dead set against the idea of putting guns on merchantmen.

The big objective, Senator Taft (R-Ohio) explained, was to preserve the law's existing provisions prohibiting American-flag merchantmen from operating in combat zones or voyaging to belligerent ports.

However, he said, many opposition legislators had come to the conclusion that unless a substantial vote could be mustered against the ship arming proposal in the house, administrative forces in the senate were likely to seek more sweeping changes, which would end the curb on ship movements.

"There are some who believe that the arming of ships might not be so bad in itself," Taft told reporters, "but when it is linked with a proposal to send those vessels into the war zone, the whole question must be considered."

Fish Reverses Stand

In the same vein, Representative Fish (R-N.Y.), ranking minority member of the house foreign affairs committee, said he would reverse his previous decision to support the armed ship proposal if it became apparent that this was "part of an administration plot to get rid of the combat zone provision in the senate."

"In that case," he declared, "I will be against the whole darn thing."

Roosevelt told congress yesterday, in specifically requesting repeal of the ban on arming merchantmen, that he hoped the legislators would cast full production of the lend-lease act by making it possible for the United States to deliver the articles to those who are in a position to use them.

"In other words," he went on, "I ask for congressional action to implement congressional policy."

This meant, the president said, that congress ought to give "earnest and early attention" to other major revisions of the neutrality act so that this country would cease giving the definite assistance which we now are giving to the aggressors.

"For, in effect," his message said, "we are inviting their control of the seas by keeping our ships out of the ports of our own friends."

"It is time for this country to stop playing into Hitler's hands and to unshackle our own."

Most Supplies Sunk
The president pointed out that while most of the war supplies authorized by congress were being delivered, many of them were being sunk, adding that as this country approached full production requiring the use of more ships it would be "increasingly necessary to deliver American goods under the American flag."

The United States could not, he went on, depend upon the exiled governments of Norway and Holland to furnish the ships needed to carry supplies to countries fighting Hitler, nor should its ships be forced to "march" as they have done under the flags of sister American Republics.

This was promptly interpreted in some quarters as an invitation for immediate action to repeal the ban against American ships entering belligerent ports, but administration-sponsored legislation introduced in both chambers immediately after the message was read called only for elimination of the armed ship restriction. House committee hearings on the measure will start Monday.

The president's message aroused mixed reaction in congress, with administration leaders uniformly endorsing his proposals.

Senator Lucas (D-Ill.) looked on the arming of ships as a "timely warning" to would-be aggressors.

Roosevelt Has Hunch How Germany Learned of Letter to Stalin

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—President Roosevelt, answering a press conference query, declared today he had no reports at all which would indicate that Russia had reached the point in her resistance to Germany where she might have to accept an armistice.

Asked whether he had any knowledge of how a letter in which promised Premier Joseph Stalin all possible American assistance had reached Berlin, Roosevelt said he had a hunch, but did not elaborate.

To an inquiry whether the matter was one of interest to the government, he replied in the affirmative but said it was not a matter of surprise.

He asserted, too, in response to another question, that he had no information that the letter had been broadcast to the Russian troops and that he believed this had not been done.

Governor Refuses to Be Gagged by Bi-Partisan Judicial Candidates in Chicago; Will Speak as Planned

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Governor Green's speech before the Chicago Bar Association Oct. 23, as well as the dinner at which he was to have given it is off, but the governor is still determined to make the speech the same evening and to speak plainly.

Shortly before the double cancellation was announced by Lloyd Heth, president of the association, Governor Green issued a statement yesterday in which he said he had cancelled the engagement to "relieve everyone of all embarrassment" caused by the invitation extended to him.

"Yesterday President Heth came to me," Green explained, "and said that he was being accused of playing politics in the coming judicial election by inviting me to speak, and that some of the sitting judges had threatened to resign from the bar association if I was permitted to speak before the association."

"x x x it is well known that the bar association is not active in

Report Armistice Offered Reds Not Widely Accepted

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Reports that Germany had offered an armistice to Russia circulated widely in Europe today.

A non-axis informant on the continent, a man with wide diplomatic connections whose information has proven highly reliable, said Russia was giving the terms, forwarded through Japan and Bulgaria, serious consideration because of her present critical situation, but this was denied by an authoritative Russian source in London.

"There is not a vestige of truth in the report," this London source said. "The Germans know we would not accept an armistice if it was offered."

Answering a press conference question today, President Roosevelt said he had no reports at all which would indicate that Russia had reached a point where she might have to accept an armistice.

Talk of Trial Balloon

One reliable London source said, however, that it was understood the Germans had floated a trial balloon through the Japanese. He said he did not know if any actual offer had been made, but indicated feelers had been put out as to Russia's attitude on turning over her air force to the Germans and placing her factories under German supervision.

Informed circles in the United States considered an armistice offer quite possible—in fact, considered it a quite normal procedure on the part of the Germans at such a time—but were less inclined to accept the thesis that Russia was giving such a proposal any serious consideration.

However, in Berlin today military spokesmen vigorously denied reports of peace feelers.

"We will fight until the last Russian division is annihilated," said one.

2 Boys Freed of Murder Charges

Chester, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—At the request of State's Attorney David N. Conn, the Circuit court has dismissed murder charges against two 12-year-old boys—Barney Byram and Matthew Voudrie—in the death of Harry Knoke, Jr. 11.

Conn filed a motion for dismissal late yesterday and Circuit Judge D. H. Mudge approved it. Conn then asked the County court to have the boys adjudged delinquent.

Said Conn: "The problem of the best procedure to pursue has worried me and the procedure I am adopting in this case seems the only fair and just action that can be done."

The Knoke boy drowned in the Mississippi after a fight between the three along the Chester river front last June 24. At the time of the arrest of the pair Conn said they admitted pushing the third boy into the river after one had held him while the other hit him on the head with a 12-inch file.

A Randolph county grand jury on Sept. 22 indicted the two. They were released on bond and have been attending school.

RUSSIA NOT BARRED

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The house refused today to specifically exclude Russia from aid under the $5,985,000,000 lend-lease appropriation.

Russians Concede German Successes on Several Fronts

See-Saw Battle Raging Toward Climax; No Clean Decision

(By The Associated Press)
Russian front-line dispatches conceded today that Adolf Hitler's invasion armies were still advancing "over mountains of German corpses" in the Bryansk sector of the 9-day-old battle for Moscow, and simultaneously the British radio reported a new threat developing almost due west of the U. S. S. R. capital.

The BBC said Nazi troops were striking toward the upper Volga town of Rzhev, 125 miles west of Moscow, thereby stretching the main soviet defense line into a 270-mile arc through Vyazma and Bryansk to Orel.

The Germans reported "forward progress along the entire front" and said one "kettle" of soviet resistance after another was being wiped out.

As the battle raged violently toward a climax, but still without a clear-cut decision, reports circulated widely in Europe that Germany had offered an armistice to Russia.

The Germans were now hammering at Moscow from three and perhaps four main sectors, possibly attempting to surround the Russian capital as they circled Warsaw in 1939.

See-Saw Fighting

Reports circulated in Berlin, officially unconfirmed but not denied, that Nazi troops had captured the important railway town of Tula, only 130 miles south of Moscow.

In the see-saw fighting around Vyazma, 125 miles southwest of Moscow, the Russians admitted the Germans had scored gains in several sectors, but said picked Red army troops were now moving up to meet them, reinfusing units which brought the first violent impact of the Nazi onslaught.

Red Star, the soviet army newspaper, said Russian troops recaptured a village around Vyazma and found 4,500 German dead. Elsewhere in the same region, counter-attacking soviet troops were reported to have routed a German motorized column, killing 8,000 nazis and destroying 220 tanks in a five day battle.

Red Star reported that the German advances around Bryansk were achieved only through sheer weight of numbers, with the invaders suffering enormous losses.

Immense Forces Move Up

Red Star said the Germans were throwing immense forces into the new push after being routed earlier in the Bryansk sector, 220 miles southwest of Moscow.

As an example, the newspaper reported two Nazi tank divisions and two motorized infantry divisions were hurled against a single Red army unit of undisciplined size, and that three German infantry divisions led by 100 tanks attacked another soviet unit during a one-day battle.

Other soviet dispatches, however,

Guns for Merchant Ships Ready When Congress Says 'Go'

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Merchantmen plying the Atlantic danger zones can be armed just as soon as congress gives the word, administration leaders disclosed today, because the navy has sufficiently overcome the serious shortage of proper weapons which existed earlier this year.

"There will be enough guns for the ships in the Atlantic as soon as the necessary revision of the neutrality act is accomplished," an informed administration source said.

Although the navy is known to have a great many guns in reserve which were adequate to protect ships against submarines, there was a shortage of anti-aircraft weapons.

Can Arm 900 Ships

Last April 5, however, congress made $75,888,820 available to correct that situation and shortly thereafter the navy began getting deliveries of those guns in substantial numbers. The April estimate placed expected production at about 100 a month.

The money provided was for the purchase of 1,445 guns and 1,344 mounts.

Naval officials testified that those weapons together with those already available would provide for the arming of 900 ships, mostly private merchantmen, and said they estimated that would be the number of vessels which would have to be armed in the event of war.

GRACE

The Christian graces are like perfumes, the more they are pressed, the sweeter they smell; like stars that shine brightest in the dark; like trees which, the more they are shaken, the deeper root they take, and the more fruit they bear.

—Beaumont.

The being of grace must go before the increase of it; for there is no growth without life, and no building without a foundation.

—Lavington.

As grace is first from God, so it is continually from Him, as much as light is all day long from the sun, as well as at first dawn or at sun-setting.

—Jonathan Edwards.

What we most need is the prayer of fervent desire for growth in grace, expressed in patience, meekness, love, and good deeds.

—Mary Baker Eddy.

Grace comes into the soul, as the morning sun into the world; first a dawning; then a light; and at last the sun in his full and excellent brightness.

SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Profit by Christianity's Ideals In Contrast With Ways of World

Text: Matthew 20:25-28; Luke 19:1-10

By WILLIAM GILROY, D. D., Editor of Advance

Lessons for this quarter all have the interesting feature of being selected from two passages of Scripture. There are some advantages in this, particularly when, as in this lesson, a presentation of the essence of the Christian religion and way of life is associated with a practical example or incident from life.

The four verses from the 20th chapter of Matthew present as vividly and definitely as could be stated the Christian ideal and way of life in contrast with the way of the world. The contrast is so unmistakable it is amazing so many have failed to profit by it. Even professing Christians and those associated with the church have been more concerned about pursuing the way of the world in personal ambition for power or material reward rather than in consecrating themselves to the Christian ministry of service.

"The rulers of the Gentiles," said Jesus, "lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them." It is not an exact picture of just what has been happening in all countries throughout the ages? To attain to power and to exercise authority has been the goal of men of great abilities and their petty imitators.

Jesus says that this is not the Christian way. In the Kingdom that He came to establish, greatness is not reckoned by lordship and authority, but by the measure of one's capacity and willingness to minister. Whosoever would be first in this Kingdom is the one who most truly serves his fellowmen, and first of all in the Kingdom is Jesus Himself, "who came not to be ministered unto, but to minister, and to give his life a ransom for many." Repeatedly, both by precept and example, Jesus sought to enforce this lesson concerning true greatness.

From this we turn to the interesting story of Zachaeus, a man held in little esteem and of no account in his community, who nevertheless through the ministry of Jesus became great. Zachaeus was a "chief publican"—that means that he was head of the local tax gatherers, who represented the hated power of Rome. As such he would be regarded as a traitor to his race, although his name signified "the pure" or "the just."

The custom of taxation under the Romans was to farm out or let the privilege of tax collection to a successful bidder who was likely to make his profit out of extortion. Zachaeus may have made his wealth legitimately, or he may have been an extortioner. His extortions could not have been very extensive, or he could not have restored four-fold to anybody whom he had wronged.

In a great sermon on overcoming hindrances, the famous preacher of last century, Robertson of Brighton, defended Zachaeus as a man who might have made a false step but who, with all the temptations of his profession and with all the contempt of his community, was endeavoring nonetheless to triumph over hindrances and live a good and honorable life. His eagerness to see Jesus was genuinely honest, and what Jesus brought him was not only salvation but vindication. It is an interesting view, and Robertson's sermon is well worth reading and considering by any reader who can secure it in Robertson's sermons through a public library.

Mother's Tea

Easy chairs and candle light provided a charming background for the annual Mother's Tea which was held on Thursday afternoon, October 2. Although the weather was not favorable, approximately sixty women attended.

The mothers of the A. T. H. S. students were met at the door by Student Council members. After they signed the register, they were escorted to the clothing room which had been transformed into a delightful living room. Here the ladies had a chance to meet the new teachers, other faculty members and their friends. The receiving line was headed by Elizabeth Welty. There was no regular program this year.

The tea table held dainty refreshments, prepared by the members of the foods department. Mrs. Funkhouser, Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Pepiot, and Miss Klapprodt poured the tea and coffee and were assisted in serving by members of the Home Living Class.

The Student Council and the Home Ec. department are to be praised for their efforts in making this regular social event a success.

Annual Staff Chosen

Home Ec. Club

The Home Economics club with their sponsor, Miss Postlewaite, had their third Home Economics Club Rally at Sterling Township High school last Saturday, October 4. Miss Postlewaite and the members left Amboy at 8:30 in the morning on the school bus.

Each Home Ec. club was to sponsor a program so our girls gave a musical skit consisting of various acts and instrumental numbers.

During the noon hour everyone joined the group assembled in the gym to eat their lunches and to become acquainted. Entertainment

Coach's Father Dies

Due to the serious illness and death of his father, Mr. Dominetta has been absent from school since Wednesday. The faculty and student body are indeed sorry to hear this news.

G. A. A.

The Girls' Athletic Association has been gaining in popularity, as shown when approximately seventy students attended the first meeting. Last year the club selected a very efficient group of officers with Betty Theiss, president; Elizabeth Welty, vice president; Mary Clare Dieter, treasurer; Kathleen Eranigan, secretary; and Ruth Avenarius, point chairman. The club sponsors the Halloween party which will be held October 31. For an outside activity the girls will take up bowling. They are to have a roller skating party sometime before Christmas.

Junior Class Meeting

The Junior class met Wednesday, October 1, and selected their class rings. A committee made up of Darlene Kessel, Harriet Hatch, Joe Ottengheim, Jim McKeown, and Dick McGowan made the four selections from which the class chose their ring style.

Senior Class Meeting

The Seniors met Tuesday, September 30, and were surprised to hear that Mr. Blankenburg, the photographer, would be here on Monday, October 6, to take the class pictures. Some of the boys, anticipating the pictures to be taken at a later date have new haircuts and were very disappointed to learn he was coming at this time.

Ag News

For the past four weeks the Agriculture IV class has been studying meat and milk judging in preparation for the state judging contest. Last Saturday the teams and on the teams were Lyle Reuter, Charles Yale, Leslie Bothe, Joe Henkel, Earl Gascoigne, and Harold July. In the afternoon the boys were guests at the Illinois vs. Miami football game. The boys then started on their return trip to Amboy.

Rock Falls Defeats Reserves

Mr. Dominetta's reserves played Rock Falls Saturday, September

27. The boys playing together for the first time showed great possibilities. Neis, a sophomore and a new recruit this season, played an outstanding game. This is also true of Fortney and Leffelman. The team with the experience it gains should be able next fall to step in and fill the shoes of this year's graduating seniors.

Peoria Truck Driver Admits Wife's Death

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 10—(AP)—Elwin Wagner, 40, a truck driver, was held for further investigation today in the fatal shooting of his wife of three weeks.

Chief of Detectives Fred Nussbaum said Wagner, who was arrested yesterday, admitted the slaying in a signed statement and quoted him as saying "I'm glad I did it." No charges were filed immediately.

Mrs. Wagner, 26, was shot in the head Wednesday night by a man who forced his way into the Bartonville home where she formerly was housekeeper. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

A Thought for Today

Let us not therefore judge one another any more; but judge this rather, that no man put a stumbling block or an occasion to fall in his brother's way.—Romans 14:13.

For I do not distinguish by the eyes, but by the mind, which is the proper judge of the man.—Seneca.

End the Comedy

Stalin is an atheist. Karl Marx was an atheist. Lenin was an atheist. Trotsky was an atheist. Communism is atheistic. Mention of God, except in derision, never is made at a communist meeting.

Let us have done with trying to make a Sunday school boy out of Stalin. The best Stalin can do, at his age, is permit American missionaries to preach the gospel in Russia and teach the Reds how to take baths.

If we are going to lease-lend something to Russia, let us divorce that action from religion, and help the Reds for practical reasons. It would be silly to deny help to the Reds, if by so doing, we can help ourselves—whether the Reds are atheists, pagans or whatnot. The thing to decide is whether we would be helping ourselves, or scattering our shot.

Will Congress Assert Itself?

(Chicago Tribune)

The last war, in which we had an AEF, cost us 22 billion dollars. The 22 billions did not all go for the AEF, but also paid for training of troops before they went overseas, and for training troops who didn't go over. The 22 billions also took care of the equipment which was made, but which was either unusable or not made in time to be employed. The 22 billions included the vast sums taken by unscrupulous men out of dubious contracts, harbor appropriations, camp locations, and the many other spoils of war and politics. The 22 billions represented the aggregate direct cost of our participation in the World War.

The 22 billions which was spent directly on the World War was a sum so vast that it was said a few years ago that "such outpouring of money has never been remotely approached or dreamed of in any country in any period of history."

Now prepare for a surprise. The Roosevelt arms spending program already amounts to 65 billions of dollars, including lend-lease. This is roughly three times as much as the whole cost of the last war. While we are still at peace, commitments have been made for an aggregate three times as much as the whole cost of the last war.

The present orgy of spending makes pikers out of the wasters of the World War era. What in heaven's name is the Roosevelt administration up to with its program of 65 billion dollars?

Mr. Chesly Manly of The Tribune's Washington bureau analyzed the available figures on costs of equipment for an army of 10 million as a possible clue to the present objective. Mr. Manly found that 20 billion 323 million dollars would be available out of the 65 billions for ordnance and other fighting equipment. He found on the basis of war department estimates that 400 divisions—100 of them motorized—could be equipped for 4 billion 550 million dollars. He found that 100 completely equipped armored divisions could be provided for 3 billion 434 million dollars. Thus an army of about 7½ million men made up of 400 infantry divisions, 100 of them motorized and 100 armored divisions, would cost 7 billion 984 million dollars. This would leave over 12 billion dollars for reserve equipment and for the cost of equipping 2 million men in an air force.

And the 20 billion to provide for an army of 10 million men would still leave nearly 45 billions of the Roosevelt program untouched.

Appropriations are made on this fantastic scale with little said about where the money is coming from. As the bills start coming in the secretary of the treasury thinks about that. He first improvises a savings bond scheme. That hasn't worked. Next, he asked for outrageous taxes on the income of persons and companies which increased some levies by as much as 300 per cent besides imposts on consumers goods. Within recent weeks he has been crying out for the socialization of corporate incomes, taxes on workmen under the guise of social security, and finally what he termed "all-out taxation."

The billions were all voted by congress. Without authorization of the legislative branch of the government, the Roosevelt administration couldn't spend any money at all. The wanton waste of money has all been provided for by laws approved by both houses of congress. It is true that it takes a man of character to oppose a regime when any one who refuses to be a yes man is likely to have his patriotism attacked.

But the legislative branch of the government has a function to perform and surely there are some men at the capital strong enough to stand up for the right. The President's majority is actually the smallest of his administration. Now that Morgenthau's speeches have shown what the consequences of the reckless waste of funds will be, congress should be able to pull itself together and do its duty.

One Price to Soldiers—

Profiteering is always and in any case a nasty business. There is one phase of it that is even worse than the ordinary variety. That is the effort to profiteer at the direct expense of soldiers.

During the recent Arkansas-Louisiana maneuvers, it was noted by officers that wherever the troops appeared there was a tendency for prices to shoot up, and for one set of prices to exist for civilians, one price to soldiers.

Communities in which large numbers of soldiers are operating may wish to protect their own names against any such charges by taking local measures to prevent it. To profiteer on the small pay of soldiers on active duty is not a thing in which any community will take much pride.

Being a coward isn't worth half as much as it costs.

'Filter Centers' of U.S. Army Permanent

Officers Had Serious in Establishing Air Raid Warning Setup

New York, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The army is pretty serious about establishing an air raid warning system in the United States—so serious, in fact, that today it had in operation four "filter centers," as permanent as England's, for the receipt and evaluation of reports from observers.

Those centers, plus two temporary ones, were being employed in the week-long air raid warning network exercise, now in its second day in ten northeastern states.

It may be mock warfare for the movie-going civilian. For the army, it is just short of the real thing.

The layman has no idea how far the army has gone in buttressing the air raid defense system—under development for five years—until he tries to enter a building on West 18th Street in Manhattan.

He doesn't walk far. He gets stopped. Identification must be produced. Then, if the layman wants to go any farther, he must be accompanied by a messenger.

Reports Recorded

Upstairs are two floors wholly devoted to a permanent filter and plotting system. Six hundred women and dozens of men run the place. Telephone calls stream in from thousands of volunteer observers.

The observers' reports are recorded with a marker on a big horizontal map. The marker is a "Plotter's Pip". Evaluators, behind the plotters, decide whether an observer's report on enemy airplanes is a phony or the real thing.

If it is the real thing the pips are replaced with arrows and "tellers" sitting in a balcony above the map relay the information to an adjoining operations room. From the information which accumulates gradually on the operations room map decisions are made on the dispatch of interceptor fighters to meet invading bombers.

The most startling aspect of the current exercise, in which 40,000 volunteer observers are participating, is that the big air raid warning filter center here, and those in Norfolk, Boston and Philadelphia, have been built to last.

ANNA MAY EASLEY
To Mrs. Easley with who on the third year of my service with the Dixon State Hospital relieved me from my duties at 3 p. m.

GONE HOME
Dying, still slowly dying.
As the hours of night ride by,
She had lain since the light of sunset
Till after the evening sky.
Till after the middle watches
As we softly near her tread—
When her soul from its prison fetters
Was loosed by the hand of God.

One moment her pale lips trembled
With the triumph she might not tell.
As the sight of the life immortal
On her spirit's vision fell.
Then the look of rapture faded,
And the beautiful smile was faint,
As that of some convent picture
On the face of a dying saint;

And we felt near the lonesome midnight
As we sat by the silent dead.
What a light on the path going downward
The feet of the righteous shed;
When we thought how with faith unshrinking
She came to the Jordan's tide,
And taking the hand of the Saviour
Went up on the other side.

Church Societies

W. S. C. S.—Circle 1 of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church held its October meeting Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Frank C. Kingsley, 818 Peoria avenue. The meeting was opened with the singing of "America," with Mrs. Blake Grover at the piano. The chairman, Mrs. Fred Ball, presided at the business meeting. Mrs. LaVerne Hibarger conducted the impressive devotions and Mrs. Clara Shawger offered prayer. Mrs. A. I. Hardy read an interesting article on "The Power of Women in the Church." Mrs. J. V. Ridolph was a guest of the circle and gave two readings which were greatly enjoyed. About 30 ladies attended the meeting. Refreshments were served by the hostess. The November meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Alice Beede.

Hugh S. Johnson Writes From Capital During Mallon's Illness

(Distributed by King Features Syndicate, Inc. Reproduction in whole or in part strictly prohibited.)

Washington, D. C., Oct. 10.—"If you put a ceiling over prices, especially if you put one over wages and farm prices, you will have to put a ceiling over profits of business."

This is one great bugaboo that is holding up anti-inflation legislation—notwithstanding that every important authority, new dealer, old dealer or middle-of-the-roader has testified that inflation is the most dreadful danger that now confronts our people.

In furtherance of that threat we hear "in war there shall be no profits." We see bills introduced limiting business profits to 6% on capital investment and other similar balmic lunacies.

Look at them more closely and you will find that they are largely a confusion of terms, uttered mostly by politicians who either don't know or don't want to know what they are talking about.

"What is a 'ceiling' over prices, including wages or farm prices? It is no cast-iron restriction. It doesn't reach back and reduce any price. It simply says: 'These increases have gone high enough. They shall not go any further upward without a showing in the case of wages, that increases in the cost of living justify it or in the case of farm prices, that they have not reached the long-promised goal of 'parity'—far exchange value in terms of the prices of the things the farmer buys'.

That in itself is a flexible rule. For, just as labor wages will go up as fast as the cost of living goes up, so also will the price of the things the farmer sells go up as fast as the price of what he buys. That is the "ceiling" plan as it applies to labor and agriculture. As it applies to business, prices can go up, but only where for some special reason and for its own purposes government permits them to go up, in a certain degree.

But that is not what the opponents of price ceiling propose when they say there must also be a ceiling over profits—say 6% on invested capital. That doesn't propose a ceiling over profits as of a certain day. It proposes to reach back indefinitely on an arbitrary rule or no rule at all and, for most new and small enterprises, to a point that would bankrupt most of them and on the most old and highly capitalized and powerful monopolies or great corporations to set a limit higher than most of them have enjoyed for a long, long time.

Wages have been going up, prices have been going up to a point where the beginning of a robust inflation is already here. But generally speaking net profits, whether figured as a percentage either on investment or sales, and regardless of multiplied business expenses, haven't been going up. Mounting state, local and federal taxes have taken so large a portion of them that net advances in profits have been prevented.

The new tax legislation will actually reduce them. Government hasn't taken 40% to 80% out of wages and farm prices, but it has or shortly will take as much as that out of profits.

There is hardly a voice in this country raised against the slogan "Take by taxes all profits due to war". We are doing that and we are going to do it further.

But, that is a very different thing from this new slogan: "In war, take all profits."

That simply ruins the capitalistic system and our plan of free enterprise. It is creeping communism or nazism.

It would be as sensible as to say: "Don't put a reasonable limit on high wages and farm prices due to war to prevent inflation, but in war take all wages and confiscate all farm products."

It is high time to get quick and common sense action on the price-control bill.

Minimum Wage of Shoe Workers to Be Boosted

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—An order for a minimum wage of 40 cents an hour in the shoe industry, increasing the pay of about 96,000 workers, will be issued in a few days by Brigadier General Philip B. Fleming, administrator of the wage-hour division.

The order will become effective on Nov. 3, Fleming said today.

Approximately 250,000 workers are employed in the industry covered by the new wage minimum, the highest that can be established under the wage-hour act.

The industry has been operating under a 35-cent minimum. The number of workers whose pay will be boosted, federal officials say, in the shoe producing areas follow:

New England, 36,000; Middle West, 24,000; Middle Atlantic states, 30,000; and southern states, 5,000.

"Pay Promptly" Is Keynote of Survey Started in County

Credit Bureau Assisted in Movement by Expert of National Fame

L. O. Willows, special credit bureau representative, is in Dixon to assist the Credit Bureau of Lee county in making a survey of all past due accounts.

Willows has had long experience in assisting merchants and professional men in their efforts to obtain the cooperation of the public in paying when due. These surveys have recently been completed in Rockford, Freeport, Waukegan, Streator, Bloomington, Danville, Champaign, Decatur, Dubuque, Clinton, Cedar Rapids, Waterloo, Burlington and many other towns in Iowa and Missouri.

The "Pay Promptly" campaign is being conducted for the purpose of impressing all who are given credit privileges that they should not be abused and that it is important to credit buyers not to allow their accounts to fall into the slow or past due classification.

Detailed Records

The Credit Bureau of Lee County was established 13 years ago in Dixon, being prior to 1938 known as the Dixon Retail Credit Bureau. During the intervening years it has kept detailed records of the paying habits of all charge account customers.

It is a member of the Associated Credit Bureaus of America through which 1380 credit exchanges transfer credit reports between merchants all over the continent and in Hawaii.

When a family moves to Dixon a complete credit record is brought here from the former home. The local record follows people who move from Dixon to other places. If the record is good that family may enter into new credit relations wherever it may go. An adverse rating similarly interferes with opening accounts in new places.

Cooperation between credit grantors through the credit bureau establishes a control of credit transactions in this trade area. This aids the honest person to obtain the credit to which he is entitled, and at the same time, merchants and professional men are protected from credit losses.

Illinois Congressman Raps U. S. Aid to Russia

Washington, Oct. 10.—(AP)—Rep. Stephen A. Day of Evansville, Ind., supporting a Republican effort to forbid use of any part of a lease-lend appropriation for Russia, yesterday told the house: "Every dollar of this appropriation, in the sole discretion of the president, can be given to the soviet union if he so desires. Please do not in this chamber haul down the flag of the constitution."

"The scheme of lend-lease is to have a continuous flow of materials. This bill is but one of a series. They will bring more inflation, more disaster.

"I would rather not leave this chamber and have it said that I forgot my friends in Illinois and became a close buddy of Joe Stalin when I got to Washington."

Deaths

Suburban—

CHARLES JOESTEN

Charles Joesten, 71, prominent Ogle county farmer who lived alone on his farm in Rockvale township, about two and one-half miles northeast of Oregon, was found dead at his home this morning by Frank Mumford, hauler for the Carnation Milk Co., who started an investigation when he drove up to the Joesten farm to collect milk this morning, and found it had not been placed out as usual.

He found the aged man dead on the kitchen floor, apparently stricken with a heart attack sometime yesterday, as the cows had not been milked last night. Coroner J. C. Akins of Forreston was summoned and scheduled an inquest for this afternoon.

Mr. Joesten was born March 21, 1887, and was widowed about ten years ago. He is survived by two children, Allen of Rochelle and Miss Anna of Oregon; two brothers, Henry and Fred of Oregon; and one sister, Mrs. Fred Ehman, also of Oregon.

HARRY L. GILES

Harry L. Giles, 38, a former resident of Dixon, died last evening at his home in Moline, after suffering a heart attack on Sunday.

Funeral services will be conducted at 1:30 p. m. Saturday at the Moline Gospel Temple, with the Rev. A. W. Kortkamp officiating. Burial will be in Oakwood cemetery in Dixon, and a short service will be conducted at the grave, about 4:30 o'clock. The casket will be opened at the cemetery.

The widow, the former Miss Hazel Stambrough of Dixon, and four children survive. Mrs. Giles is a niece of Mrs. William Kime of this city.

The obituary will be published later.

EMMA RING

Daniel and Mary Leonard and Miss Mary A. Sutton, all of Harmon, today received word of the death of their cousin, Emma Ring, formerly of Harmon, in a Chicago hospital at 5:00 o'clock Thursday afternoon, after a long illness. Funeral services will be held in Chicago at 9:00 o'clock Monday morning, with burial in a Chicago cemetery.

Girl Scout Troops Have Place in Community

All over the world there are girls who are Girl Scouts because they are interested in having good times together. They are learning through working and playing together how to be resourceful out-of-doors, helpful at home, and useful in their communities.

When a girl becomes a Girl Scout she is not only a member of a troop and belongs to the Girl Scouts in her own community and in the United States but she is a member of a world organization which is established in many different countries.

Because the girl of seven does not like to do the same things as a girl of seventeen, there are three separate programs for three different age groups. The ten fields of interest which are started in the Brownie troop are continued throughout the intermediate and senior scout programs. The ten fields are: Arts and crafts, community life, health and safety, home making, international friendship, literature and dramatics, music and dancing, nature, the out-of-doors, sports and games.

Dixon Girl Scout organization has a registration of three hundred ten girls between the ages of seven and 18 years of age. There are 80 adults who are directly connected with the Girl Scout organization. These adults serve in the capacity of council members, leaders, consultants and troop committee members.

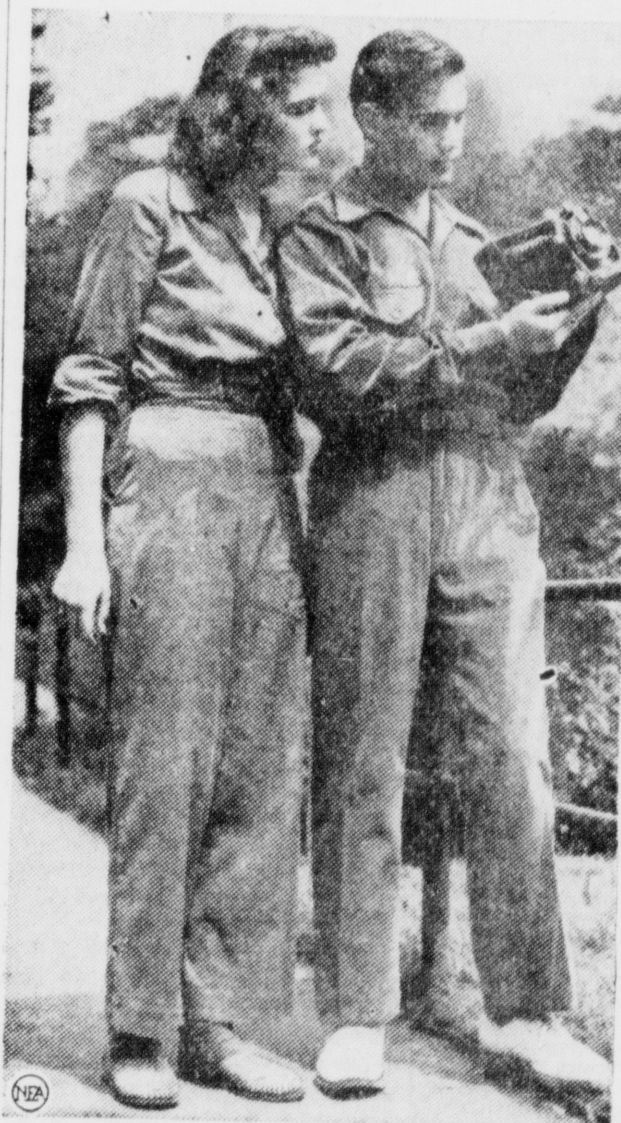

There are twenty troops with seven Brownie troops, nine intermediate troops and four senior troops. Brownie leaders are Mrs. Charles Cramer, Mrs. Joseph Maconda, Mrs. P. J. Malay, Mrs. John Praetz, Mrs. Harvey Baker, Mrs. Donald Marks, Mrs. F. W. Lynch, Mrs. Curtis Taylor, Mrs. Edward Jones, Mrs. Dorothy McCoy, Mrs. E. M. Greene and Mrs. Ben Zbinden.

The intermediate Scout leaders are: Mrs. Phil Reilly, Mrs. Frank Buckley, Mrs. E. T. Hewitt, Mrs. Lloyd Phelps, Miss Ruth Crombie, Mrs. Wallace Hicks, Miss Lorraine Gannoni, Mrs. Norman Dietrich, Miss Mary Willford, Mrs. John Cramer, Mrs. Thomas Gilbert, Mrs. Freeman Kaufman, Mrs. William Barthelme, Mrs. Paul Hutton, Mrs. Wallace Elfron, Miss Charlotte Swartz, Mrs. Vernon Anderson and Mrs. Glenn Clark.

The Senior Scout leaders are: Miss Jane Haven, Miss Norma Montgomery, Miss Ann Espevik, Miss Zora Cernich, Miss Dorothea Butts, Miss Ruth Grove, Miss Kathryn Bonges, Miss Betty Allen, Miss Hope Edison, Mrs. Chasteen.

Girls in Dixon want to join the Girl Scouts. Dixon needs Girl Scouts. Promote Girl Scouting by donating to the drive which takes place October 14.

THE striking thing about stylish young suburbanites this autumn: He and She will look alike. At least their clothes will. This pair, for instance, wear slacks of the same fabric, a new velvety ribbed one of corduroy construction. Here are a little warmer brown in color, of course, and his have a separate belt. Another important feature of such leisure clothes is that loose, easy comfort is the No. 1 consideration.

ARMY RIDDLES DEPAUL'S SPORTS COACHING STAFF

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—The Army has done a good job of riddling the sports coaching staff at DePaul University.

Latest to be called is Stan Szukala, freshman basketball coach, who has been ordered to report for induction Wednesday. Szukala was a star forward on the 1939 DePaul team.

Preceding him into the army was Tom Haggerty, varsity coach, who is now a major in the anti-aircraft division, and Bob Neu, another former DePaul star, who was DePaul academy cage coach when called.

State Job Offices Will Close Monday for Columbus Day

The Sterling state employment office will close Monday, October 13, in observance of Columbus Day, F. W. Southwick, manager announced today.

Visiting offices in smaller towns also will be closed, manager said. Where service is given only on Mondays, claimants should report Monday, October 20, regardless of whether they have completed their waiting period. They will then be permitted to certify for both weeks.

There will be no delay in payment of benefits, as arrangements have been made to take care of claimants who would register Monday.

No New Claims

Workers who have completed their waiting period, and who would normally report Monday to sign their pay orders for the week should report Tuesday, October 14, unless given other instructions by the office.

Workers who have not yet completed a waiting period, and who would normally report Monday, should report Monday, October 20, when they will be permitted to certify for the waiting week and sign their pay orders for their first week of benefits.

Because of the increased number of claimants who will be making their weekly reports Tuesday, October 14, no new claims will be taken on that day at full-time offices.

Beloit College Co-Eds To Entertain Soldiers

Beloit, Wis., Oct. 10.—(AP)—Beloit college co-eds will do their bit to bolster army morale by holding a dance tomorrow night for 200 Camp Grant soldiers. The draftees will be brought to the campus by bus, and will be entertained at smokers in fraternity houses before going to the dance, from which college boys will be excluded.

Cornell vs. Harvard—The Big Red always has a strong team and they look like this year is no exception. So after a close battle, my guess will be Cornell 7, Harvard 0.

Colgate vs. Dartmouth—Colgate should win this one handily, 19 to 7.

Santa Clara vs. California—I was under the impression the Golden Bears were a good team, but the experts all tell me: Santa Clara 14, California 7.

Washington vs. Washington State—Washington appears to be strong this year and would like to be the team to play in the Rose Bowl. Personally, I like Stanford to repeat for that contest, but in this one I'll take Washington by 13 to 7.

Boston College vs. Clemson—Two of last year's Bowl teams clashing and I am not going to listen to the experts here and predict an upset. Clemson 7, Boston College 0.

Princeton vs. Columbia—I like Columbia, can't tell exactly why except I always liked them when Sid Luckman played for them, Columbia 13, Princeton 7.

Fordham vs. North Carolina—I can't remember when Fordham has had a poor team. They have players with longer names than Notre Dame and are they tough! Fordham 20, North Carolina 6.

Mississippi State vs. L. S. U.—After the way they treated Alabama, I'll have to string along with Mississippi State. They evidently have something. Mississippi State 14, L. S. U. 3.

Minnesota vs. Illinois—Mighty Minnesota! Looks like a good year for Bierman. Minnesota is too strong for Illinois. Minnesota 21, Illinois 7.

Missouri vs. Kansas State—I think Missouri has more than some experts seem to think and Kansas State's team is evidently large and weak. Missouri 27, Kansas State 0.

Northwestern vs. Wisconsin—Even taking into consideration Don Miller's playing and Ray Wilbur's luck, I still think Waldorf and Fritz Hofmann have planned too long for this season. Northwestern easily, 27 to 7.

Michigan vs. Pittsburgh—I bet Pitt would like to have Marshall Goldberg back for this one, but even he probably wouldn't be enough. Michigan 19, Pittsburgh 0.

Notre Dame vs. Georgia Tech—Georgia Tech apparently isn't so strong this year and Leahy seemingly has something started at N. D. I don't think I'll bet against Notre Dame this year. Notre Dame 26, Georgia Tech 0.

Texas A. & M. vs. N. Y. U.—N. Y. U. surely disappointed me last week so I will pull for Texas Texas A. & M. 13, N. Y. U. 0.

Nebraska vs. Kansas—Willard Jones has told me some wild tales of how Nebraska always goes the limit and to almost any end to win a game, so I'll string along with them. Nebraska 20, Kansas 6.

Texas vs. Oklahoma—The Longhorns usually have a strong team and those Southwest teams throw the ball around plenty. So after a wild scramble, I'll say: Texas 26, Oklahoma 14.

Stanford vs. Oregon State—Oregon State was seemingly strong when they played Southern California, but I think Stanford has probably as good a team as there is in the country. Frankie Albert is really the spark that keeps that Stanford fire burning. Stanford 26, Oregon State 7.

Marquette vs. Michigan State—Due to the excellent game they played against Wisconsin, I'll string along with Marquette. Marquette 13, Michigan State 7.

Tulane vs. Rice—Tulane has a fine strong team and no doubt will prove awfully tough for Rice—in fact, most of their opponents. Tulane 13, Rice 0.

Texas Christian vs. Indiana—Indiana doesn't seem to be up to par this year, but with some experience I think they will improve. So at present, I'll take T. C. U. by 9 to 7 score.

PICKING UP THE SPARES

Off the shirt-cuff notes taken at the Dixon Recreation, we can tell you a little dose, maybe. For instance, Eddie Nagle and Bud Dailey did a little open bowling last night and in their first game they each scored 139. . . . to make the soup thicker, they each scored 146 in the second game. . . . Frank Daschbach, by the way, says the highest game he ever had was a 299 on the old alleys on First street. . . . he missed one pin on the last ball. . . . Ed Worley counted a perfect score of 300 several years ago in open bowling. . . . Daschbach's best league score was 259. . . . one of the things we'd like explained is how a guy with a code in da head (John Cahill) lets it interfere with his bowling; when a guy with a couple of cracked ribs (Matt Moerschbacher) can pace his team-mates last night. . . . cracked slats, and all. . . .

EARLY BASEBALL NEWS

The season for Ashton high school's most popular sport, basketball, will open on Nov. 7 in the game at Lee Center. The Aces will start their practice sessions on Monday, Oct. 13 and will have new bank boards at which to shoot. Prospects are said to look very good for another successful season. Jenkins and Grover are the only lettermen lost by graduation.

WITH THE ARMY MEN

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Knetsch of Paw Paw have received word from their son, Stanley, that he arrived in Trinidad, August 28. . . . he had a fine voyage and finds the country and his work very interesting. . . . friends of Robin Satre, formerly eighth grade teacher in Polo, will be glad to hear of his progress at Camp Roberts, Calif. . . . he has just finished a ten weeks' intensive course as an instrument specialist in range finding. . . . the figures the range of the targets and this information is used in directing the fire of the 155mm and 75mm guns. . . . Private LaVerne E. Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Livingston of Polo, was graduated recently from the airplane mechanics course of the Chautau Field branch of the U. S. Army Air Corps Technical schools. . . . Robert Folk, son of Mrs. Madge Lazarus of Polo, has arrived in London as a radio technician. . . . his address in London will be the American Eagles club, Civilian Technical Corps. . . . he is attached to the Royal Air Force. . . .

CONVERSATION PIECE

Al Pettit of Dixon, who is stationed at the Wendover Range, a bombing area 127 miles from Salt Lake City, has been promoted to first class private in the army ranks. Al has enjoyed talking to his friends in Dixon via 20-meter amateur radio station W6QVL in Salt Lake to W6GNU (Dr. J. L. Tavenner) in Dixon.

TIME TAKES ALL BUT MEMORIES

Bob Mossbolder who is now a sergeant in the U. S. Army and who is stationed at Fort Kobbe in the Canal Zones, writes to Dixon friends that "I know a lot of nights when I'm sitting alone on the canal bank, my mind returns to the things that bring enjoyable memories to me. . . . days when I was in high school and playing football under 'Lindy'. . . . Bob was a center on the team here a few years ago and he was employed by the Rock Island Transfer until his enlistment in the army.

SURVIVES THE CUT

Bill Shultz, star basketball player here last year and honorary captain of Coach Sharpe's 1940-41 team, is spending the week end in Dixon as a recess from his studies at the University of Wisconsin. Bill is out for freshman basketball and of the 250 candidates to report he has survived the cut down to a team of 25. . . . Bill is being played at guard this year and the team is practicing only two nights a week now, but will get going on a daily schedule as the season approaches.

PROGRAM FOR LINDELL DAY

Hi Emmert who is bubbling over with enthusiasm for Newark pitcher John Lindell who will pitch for the Knacks here Sunday afternoon, has drummed up a program to honor the nephew of the Dixon high school coach. Ward Miller will preside at the public address system and among those expected to be interviewed are Mayor William V. Slothower, Park District President Edward Vaile, Chamber of Commerce President Walter C. Knacks and Charlie Miller, Park Commissioner Joe Vaile is also expected to be on the program along

Dukes Seek First Win In Game With Mendota Tonight

Five Conference Games On Tap Around The Neighborhood

GAMES TONIGHT

Sterling Community at Rock Falls.
Mendota at Dixon*
Rochelle at Oregon*
Mt. Morris at Morrison*
Polo at Amboy*
Sterling at Belvidere
Princeton at DeKalb*
*Conference games.

There's no more Mack Sennett comedy stuff allowed in the Rock River and North Central conferences now—football teams everywhere are settling down to some mighty serious drama as another chapter in their schedules is due to unfold under the arcs tonight. In Dixon—where a "V for Victory" campaign has been launched—the Dukes of Coach C. B. Lindell are all prepared to take on the Mendota maulers in their second conference assignment. The battle cry has become: "Let's end this string of defeats right now—before it gets out of hand!"

Already the Dukes have taken three defeats on the chin but if Mendota frightened them before, some of the sting was taken out of the invaders who were stumped, 7 to 6, last week by Sterling, a team which is reputed to have "nothing" this year.

For tonight's game the Dixon coach has been doing some experimenting all week with shifts in the lineup and there's no telling who may get the nod for tonight's start. Even Lindell himself probably doesn't know for sure until game time.

The freshman-sophomore game will open tonight's show here at 6:30 o'clock.

In the only other North Central Illinois conference game Princeton will make its circuit debut in a game at DeKalb on the very same gridiron where the Dukes suffered a 21 to 0 blow last Friday night.

Already this season the Barbs have rolled up three impressive victories and their victims have included Rochelle, Downers Grove and Dixon. Princeton, on the other hand, has won three and lost one. The Tigers have totaled 111 in four games as compared to 44 by their foes.

Sterling at Belvidere
Sterling draws a non-conference assignment this week end in the game tonight at Belvidere, a former circuit member. Belvidere in four games has not yet registered a victory, having bowed to Geneva, Harlem of Rockford, East Rockford and Princeton.

In the Rock River conference the defending champions, the Rock Falls Rockets, draw a non-league game tonight in the battle with undefeated Sterling Community high school. To date the Rockets have defeated four teams with a total of 102 points as compared to 19 by the opponents.

Rochelle, which has won one and lost two, goes to Oregon tonight to meet the undefeated Hawks who have rolled over Dixon, Stockton, Mt. Morris and Polo in four games to date and share the lead in the conference with Rock Falls.

Polo plays today at Amboy. The Marcos have lost two and tied one in the season thus far and have scored only one touchdown in the three games. The Irish hosts have won two and lost one to date. Last week they defeated Mt. Morris, 14 to 0, in the last few minutes of the game and in their other conference assignment they lost to mighty Rock Falls 19 to 6 in a demonstration of power for the Irish, nevertheless.

In the third Rock River conference game Mt. Morris goes to Morrison. This game—a traditional meeting filled with keen rivalry—is likely to produce almost anything. The Mounters have lost all three starting games and Morrison has suffered the same fate.

RIVAL COACH RETURNS OPPONENTS' KEY BOOK WITHOUT EVEN LOOKING

Bloomington, Ill., Oct. 10—(AP)—Coach Howard Hancock and Capt. Vic Allridge of Illinois State Normal would rather whip Illinois Wesleyan than any other team on the football schedule, but they are looking for no unfair advantages.

A small boy handed Allridge a complete set of mimeographed plays yesterday. One quick look at the top page revealed they were Wesleyan plays. Allridge handed them over at once to Hancock who returned them to coach Don Heap of Wesleyan with the assurance that Normal's staff did not even glance at the charted diagrams. Heap's investigation revealed that one of his players had lost his set of the plays and the little boy had come across them.

With his former teammate of the Dixon Browns, Bob Woodvatt, Woodvatt, by the way, is the fellow who pitched a record of 26 innings here many years ago when his Brown mates defeated the Muscatine, Ia., club by one run.

Former NCIC Grid Stars Will Shine at Mount Vernon

By BILL SLOTHOWER

(Dixon Student at Cornell)

Mount Vernon, Ia.—(Special to The Telegraph)—Former North Central Illinois Conference stars will shine again at Mount Vernon Saturday when Cornell college defends its nine-year-unbeaten record on Parents' Day against Beloit. Never yet have Cornell teams failed to bring home the bacon for "Dad and Mom" on Parents' Day, and Coach Walt Koch will send his charges out there this week-end to keep this record intact.

The Cornell-Beloit game will bring together as opponents several names familiar a few years ago in N. C. I. C. circles. Bill Moser, Dixon high graduate of 1940 and sophomore at Beloit, will see action at a blocking back spot for the Blue Devils. Despite Bill's small stature, he is one of the conference men in the Midwest Conference who is accredited with good blocking ability and the zip to charge his teammates into action when the going is rough.

Bill is the only former Dixon high griddier to see action in Saturday's classic at Mount Vernon, although Warren Walder, who graduated from Dixon high last spring, is playing freshman football for the Purple.

No Frosh on Varsity

Due to a rule enforcing no freshmen in varsity competition, Warren will have to wait until next year for a try at the varsity. However, the Cornell frosh are scheduled to meet Coe's freshmen in a game Homecoming morning, Oct. 25. Dick Campbell, who is in his first year at Coe, will probably oppose Warren on the Hilltopper's field.

Other former N. C. I. C. stars in the game Saturday include Dick Houden, former Belvidere high speedster. Against Ripon last week, Dick broke loose and galloped away for 51 yards for Cornell, the only serious scoring threat by the Purple that afternoon. Houden's teammates include Lew Bight, a graduate of DeKalb's 1939 Barbs, Jerry Wilson, Melvin Hetland, and Jim Harris, linemen, all of Rochelle, and all of whom will undoubtedly play in the game Saturday.

With both teams seeking their initial win of the season, Cornell defending its Parents' Day record, and Beloit protecting its 1940 conference crown, Saturday's game at Mount Vernon promises lots of fireworks and rates the nod of Iowa football fans.

Texas Christian Is Likely to Riddle Hoosiers in Air

By TOM SILER

Chicago, Oct. 10—(AP)—If the Texas Christian eleven lives up to the tradition of the southwest, Indiana university will get another lesson in pass defense tomorrow.

The Hoosiers, studied with inexperienced players, watched their best plans riddled by enemy passes in the first two games, bowing to Detroit and Notre Dame. Now come the air-minded Texans with a good passer and sturdy line.

The wheelhorse of the T. C. U. attack is Kyle Gillespie, rated a worthy successor to two other T. C. U. tosters, Sammy Baugh and Davey O'Brien. He connected for 14 of 20 passes against Arkansas last week, while a sophomore labeled Angelo Bertelli of Notre Dame was doing almost as well against Bo McMillin's lads.

To make a gloomy picture gloomier, the T. C. U. line held Tulsa to two first downs in the first game and duplicated this feat against Arkansas.

Thus the outlook is dark for Indiana, which will play Nebraska the next week. But Coach McMillin isn't wasting time weeping.

Outlook Is Dark
"Barring additional losses by injuries," says Bo, "the opening of the conference season will find us ready, much to the surprise of several of our opponents."

After Nebraska the Hoosiers will play Wisconsin, Iowa, Northwestern and Purdue.

A few minutes with the crystal ball:

Even allowing for Bob Zupke's ability to spring upsets, Minnesota's powerful machine is an overwhelming favorite to win and should have a three touchdown margin.

Wisconsin can be figured on to bounce back from the Minnesota loss with a vengeance, but Northwestern's record on trips—both teams should score, but we like the Wildcats by 34 points.

Purdue held Pittsburgh scoreless and Michigan should be able to do as well and meanwhile push over a pair of touchdowns. We like Texas Christian to whip Indiana in a close game and Notre Dame to outscore Georgia Tech in a wide open battle.

Purdue, Ohio State and Iowa are idle until Oct. 18.

TELEGRAPH AND NATIONAL TEA SWEEP SERIES

News Crew Takes Over Second Place in Thursday Loop

Dixon Telegraph and National Tea bowling quintets, who did a lot of lumber tumbling in the Commercial League without making it pay of are getting returns this year in the eight team circuit.

Last night the "Nationals" won three games to maintain their lead in the circuit and the newsmen swept their series too which boosted them to second place.

The Telegraph team hit the Sparky Fenders hard last night to dent three "mud-guards" and take the series. Leading the winners was Friday Shultz with a 476 series while McClanahan's 443 topped the losers.

Sweeping the National Tea boys to victory was Courtwright with a 552 count as he and his mates thumped the Round-Up. Topping the vanquished was Moerschbacher with 472.

Cahill's Electrics won two games from Budweiser Gardens as John Smith of the winners set a new high game record with 230 in his first ten frames and counted a 609 series to establish a new high count in that department. Leading the losers was Hahn with 476.

Coca Cola won two games from Reynolds wire as Shuck rolled 568 for the winners and Legore counted an even 500 for the wiremen.

High games were scarce last night and they are: Legore 202; J. Smith 230.

THE MARCH OF STATE CAPITALISM

By Elliot H. Sharp, Editor.

The Investment Dealers' Digest. What the international situation will be as far as the United States is concerned when this article appears is anybody's guess at this writing. So important to all of our economy—and thus to investors—is the question of whether or not we fight, that domestic problems even at the moment, and more probably later, pale in importance.

But on the eighth anniversary of federal securities legislation it is appropriate to have a look at domestic problems in the light of recent developments that closely affect the investor. For these developments fortify the arguments of those who contend that we are being skillfully maneuvered into state socialism.

Finance (money, securities, and markets) is the first prey of a government in its offensive toward state socialism. Looking back, it is not surprising that one of the first important laws passed by forces of the present administration was the Securities Act of 1933. The forerunner of additional Federal securities legislation, it placed the government in the position of being able completely to control the raising of capital by private industry—an operation often as vital to a company as blood transfusion is to an individual. Indeed, the authors went so far that within a year, even by their own consent, the Act had to be amended slightly in an attempt to make it workable so long as the system of democracy continued.

This legislation was mixed up with other factors besides that of regulating the issuance of securities. As a matter of fact, the security industry itself had been far ahead of the legislators or the public in the field of regulation. It was the industry which, over a period of years, had sponsored much of the state Blue Sky legislation. It was the industry which for many years had actually urged certain forms of Federal regulation. It was the industry which established the first Better Business Bureau. This was done in Boston by a group of public spirited investment bankers seeking to curb the racketeers not only in securities, but also in other fields. Subsequently, Better Business Bureaus were formed in most other important cities, usually under the aegis of local investment men. And still it is the investment fraternity which provides much of the spark in the excellent Boston Bureau.

So, in general, federal legislation on securities was not unwelcome to the investment business. But the nature of the legislation, and more particularly, the manner in which it has been administered is another matter, and one which should concern investors. Gradually the noose has been tightened around the neck of private capital. And the "public" has loved it. In building his system, Hitler had his "whipping boys." And the German public loved that, too.

With deficit financing, the important field of finance during the last eight years has come increasingly under the direction of Washington. The speculative manipulators of the twenties were pikers compared with the radical political manipulators of the thirties. No doubt much of this evolution has been necessary, even desirable. But anyway, there it is, with private capital at the moment—especially in the event of a shooting war—on the brink, ready to go overboard.

Of recent developments, there have been a number that are significant and that fit perfectly into the pattern. First, there is the selection of Emil Schram as president of the New York Stock Exchange. When the selection was announced, feelings among investment men were mixed. A new cleavage in the exchange membership promised to develop because (1) with only a few days of service to go, the old board of governors, led by New Dealish Paul Shields, put Schram over on the new (not then officiating) board, thereby opening itself to the accusation (actually made) of pulling a "fast one," and (2) Schram was believed to be Jesse Jones' stooge.

Now, with a little more perspective and with some knowledge of the hitherto unknown RFC chairman, Exchange members are generally settling down to acceptance of this new president as a man who may have more merits than were evident at first blush. Certainly, they say, things couldn't get much worse. Maybe this, the first "outsider" who has ever headed the Exchange, will save the day. (Exchange seats rose from $20,000 to $27,000 in the week following the announcement.) Generally, they forgive the manner of his selection.

But there are some long-heads in the business who see this move as a final sell-out to the administration, as another neck on the noose around the neck of private capital.

In another division of finance and securities, conversations between investment bankers and the Securities and Exchange Commission looking toward making the securities legislation more workable have been discontinued. For months these conversations had been going on behind more or less closed doors. Amendments were being drawn to present to congress. The various securities acts were to be welded together, inconsistencies eliminated, private investment encouraged. A week after Schram's appointment it was announced that SEC and investment bankers independent of each other would present their own amendment suggestions to Congress. Cooperation had bogged down. Did this mean, the gloomy inquired, that SEC was unwilling to relax the noose, although it might shift the position on the neck somewhat?

In the field of public utility financing, now subject to competitive bidding, Jesse Jones announced readiness on the part of the RFC to take over the reins. RFC has done much useful work, and perhaps this readiness to control utility financing in itself isn't to be derided; but those who are watching the long trend see it as another step in the march of state control of capital.

Against this march has come a congressman who is widely respected, especially by his colleagues, as being more than ordinarily astute. And so those who fear the advance of state socialism cheered last April when Representative James Wadsworth, from up-state New York, placed before congress detailed amendments to all of the securities legislation. He was motivated in part, he said, by the belief that it is high time Congress began doing some of its own law-making rather than merely acting as a rubber stamp for legislation prepared by the administration. He was motivated, too, by realization of the fact that capital was not flowing into industry as it should, that it couldn't do so as long as securities legislation hamstringing private capital. As sponsor of the Selective Service Act, having helped get young men into the army, he knew how imperative it is to provide them with equipment, and he felt responsibility on this score. Army equipment is turned out mainly by private industry. He didn't want private industry hamstringed by lack of capital.

Wadsworth went neither to the SEC nor to Wall Street for advice on his amendments. Instead, he went directly to industry. Last fall he sent a questionnaire widely to corporate executives who, having sought capital, (1) were unable to secure it or (2) were forced to secure it "privately"; that is, from the large insurance companies or banks rather than from the public through conventional channels. His "Questionnaire on the Economic Effects of Federal Regulations of Securities" drew a flood of responses, and upon these to a large extent he based his amendments.

His conclusions: The securities laws have materially impeded the flow of savings into private enterprise, particularly into small and new companies, thereby retarding employment and the growth of our national industrial machine and thus encouraging governmental assumption of control over our economic system.

They have imposed needlessly heavy costs and burdens on those seeking to comply with them;

They fail to safeguard the citizen and his business against arbitrary and unreasonable action of the SEC and its staff;

They have contributed to the dangerous deterioration in quality and effective functioning of our national securities exchange markets upon which the people must depend for the safe purchase and proper sale of securities; thus impairing the efficiency and social value of such markets and jeopardizing the safety of in-

His amendments, among other things, would:

Charge the SEC with the duty of fostering healthy, active security markets;

Simplify prospectuses and make them comprehensible to the average investor;

Simplify the procedure and reduce the cost of registering securities;

Prohibit the SEC from giving publicity to charges of wrong doing until those charges had been proved;

Provide that ample opportunity to be heard be given those affected by a rule or regulation.

That these proposed amendments had such an excellent press even in New Deal papers—such as the New York Daily News, for example—and in many of the papers in the smaller towns throughout the country is regarded as encouraging to those who see state control of finance as only one step this side of out-and-out state socialism.

What the fate of these amendments in Congress will be may be the final tip-off to those who, as investors, are geared to the system of private capitalism.

Liquidation of Bank

Results in Charges Against Its Cashier

Carlinville, Ill., Oct. 10.—(AP)—E. L. Dikis, 61, of Alton, was held in Macoupin county jail today under an indictment charging him with embezzling $10,000 while acting as cashier of the Bank of Piasa.

The indictment said that the shortage was discovered during liquidation proceedings last month after directors of the village bank decided to close the institution and pay of depositors in full. The $10,000 was embezzled, the indictment charged, over a period of three or four years.

Bond was set at $5,000 for Dikis, who was arrested late yesterday after a suppressed indictment had been returned Monday by the Macoupin county grand jury.

Betty Allen Tells Story of Luncheon With Hollywood Stars at Walgreen's

Miss Betty Allen, senior in PCHS, winner of the Louella Parsons day beauty queen title in Polo, was a luncheon guest of Mrs. Chas. R. Walgreen at Hazelwood Monday noon. The guests, including Joe E. Brown, Miss Parsons, Anne Rutherford, Ronald Reagan, George Montgomery, and others, numbered more than two hundred. Her story of the Monday activities she tells as follows:

"As one of the queens, I can certainly say we were treated like the celebrities and I enjoyed every minute of it.

"At 1 o'clock Monday morning all queens met at the Loveland Community building to be taken to Hazelwood at twelve, as guests of Mrs. Walgreen. Upon arrival we had the pleasure of meeting the well-known people from New York, Chicago, and Dixon, and also had long chats with the stars. Pictures and even a news-reel were taken of this luncheon. A cold plate served buffet style was certainly welcome. As Joe E. Brown said to a few of us, 'Let's cut this formality, you know we're all starved. Food!'"

Following the luncheon we girls were taken back to the community building where we met our floats and ladies-in-waiting. All queens and ladies-in-waiting rode in open cars prettily decorated. Miss Dolores Aldrich and Miss Dorothy Finkle were selected as the ladies-in-waiting for the queen of Polo.

"Thousands of people thronged the streets to get a glimpse of the celebrities. When we had circled the business district the parade broke up and the city's excitement cooled down somewhat until time for the banquet. All the girls were graciously received in private homes to dress for the evening's events.

"At 6:30 the banquet started. The girls led the way in after all the other people were seated. Following us came the Hollywood celebrities. A delicious dinner was served amid snapping of cameras. Joe Brown's laughter and window guests seeking autographs. For our program two incidents were dramatized from the life of Miss Parsons and music was provided by a string ensemble and the Troubadettes of Dixon.

"Miss Parsons, Ronald Reagan, and all the others gave speeches thanking everyone for their cordial welcome. After all the well known celebrities, colonels and business men were introduced, the scene moved to the premier. "All queens had to be present at the premier, when all the celebrities were again introduced. If it had been the King of England he could never have gotten a more enthusiastic welcome.

"From the premier we all were escorted to the Armory for the final event, the Hollywood Ball. While the militia of Dixon held back the crowd the queens between their attendants filed down the center of a very narrow aisle and onto the stage.

"Miss Parsons, accompanied by the Mayor, William Slothower, followed. The queens stepped forward as Miss Parsons was crowned 'Queen Mother of Rock River Valley.'

"Following her gracious speech

all the celebrities returned for their final word.

"Then came the event which certainly ended in a way that pleased everyone, the choosing of the queen. Each girl was given her chance to show the crowd her poise, personality, and beauty. The judges, Mrs. Harris of Chicago, Joan Winters, stage and radio star, and Art Kassel, orchestra leader, were the judges. Everyone was thrilled and the auditorium rang when George Montgomery came forth with the announcement that Miss Morrison, Toni Harding, was the winner. Her charm and personality captured the crowd entirely. After this event dancing was enjoyed to the music of Art Kassel and his Castles of the Air."

NEW TAX LAW

Shall the Burden Be Shared
Equally by All, or Be Imposed
Unfairly Upon Investors in Free Private Enterprise?

By Charles A. Segner
(From Investor America)

Conscientious persons at times have unpleasant duties to perform and they go through the ordeal resolutely, no matter how much it hurts. That is evidence of character and self-discipline.

These sterling qualities, possessed in superlative degree by the American people, will be put to the test in the United States during the next few years—and as far into the future as a discerning eye can see at this time.

The financial burden of unprecedented preparations for the defense of the Western Hemisphere against foreign aggression, and for military support of Great Britain and other Axis foes, rests upon the shoulders of American taxpayers. That burden will increase annually for the next few years at least. If our military and naval forces are engaged in actual hostilities, the weight of the tax burden and the years over which it must be spread will increase tremendously. These are inescapable facts, unpleasant though they may be.

Within a few weeks Congress will enact a new revenue law, drafted to raise the largest amount in taxes ever required of the American people. What the ultimate tax goal will be may be determined by events transpiring between now and the time the revenue bill is brought to a vote in the house and senate. At present the tax objective for 1941 is about 12½ billion dollars—an increase of 3½ billion over revenue receipts estimated under existing laws. If the United States enters the war as a belligerent, it is conceivable that this Congress will enact legislation providing for much greater federal income. Certainly the rate of expenditures would mount rapidly if we were fighting in the war.

If the suggestion of the Treasury is followed, about two-thirds of estimated expenditures of the federal government will be provided by taxes of all kinds and the other third will be borrowed. With the unprecedented federal debt—47½ billion dollars on May 15 and 6 or 6½ billions additional guaranteed by government agencies—limitations upon borrowing are regarded as essential to the credit security of the treasury. Thus the taxpayers are called upon to assume immediately the burden of providing the bulk of new money needed.

As we have pointed out before, the imposition of crushing taxes upon the American people at this time is not due wholly to the national defense program and aid to Britain and other foes of axis aggression. It is due primarily to the visionary and extravagant policies of an administration that for years has sought to concentrate all political and economic power in a central bureaucracy, with the Chief Executive as a virtual dictator. Under the guise of social reform, with subsidies and bribes to various groups of voting citizens, billions upon billions of dollars—half of it derived from borrowing—have been doled out in the last eight years.

As a consequence, the Government was almost hopelessly in debt before this was emergency appeared. Taxes had risen to record peace-time proportions and, even then, were sufficient to meet only about one-half the costs of a spendthrift government. A federal financial crisis was impending in the United States before the outbreak abroad. Our involvement in the foreign conflagration greatly aggravated the situation.

For necessary national defense all worth-while Americans will willingly make any sacrifices necessary, but it is the duty of the federal government to discontinue the squandering of hundreds of millions of dollars on non-defense projects and activities. Secretary Morgenthau, testifying before the House ways and means committee on the treasury's tax program, expressed the view that one billion dollars could be cut from non-defense expenditures, without sacrificing the relief or old-age programs. Other competent authorities have declared that two or three billions could be saved if political considerations were put aside by administration leaders and by congress.

With all representatives in congress required to go before the voters next year for re-election, the tendency on the part of each is to get all he can "for his constituents" and let the "other fellow" worry about economy. This attitude isn't very complimentary to the "constituency." It infers that the votes can be bought by personal or community favors, if taxpayers would organize in every congressional district and demand that their representatives and their senators cut out all unnecessary expenditures, the urge for economy in congress would manifest itself immediately.

While it is undoubtedly the duty of Congress to limit appropriations, nevertheless it is expected of the chief executive that he shall assume responsible leadership in retrenchments, especially as it was the president who inaugurated the various spending schemes. Moreover, the president drove through congress these spendthrift measures with "purge" threats against any members who opposed his wishes. But the president and congress have been "passing the buck" on economy in recent weeks and no progress has been made toward elimination of unnecessary expenditures.

The only gesture worthy of notice was President Roosevelt's request that Congress reduce to $86 million dollars his previously budgeted 995 million for WPA. In the face of official estimates that practically all employables will be in defense jobs or in the army or navy by the end of this year, a much greater slash in this appropriation for "unemployment relief" should be made at once. All of the "sacrifices" demanded by the nation in the name of national defense should not be wrung from taxpayers and investors. So-called "social reformers" might well take a holiday until the war emergency is over.

How shall the new taxes be spread? That is the absorbing question in congress. Widespread dismay followed the treasury's first recommendations that the personal income exemptions be lowered to include every wage-earner and that the rates on all be stiffened, especially on those in the $5,000 to $50,000 brackets. Many wage earners and small salaried persons saw their "standards of living" lowered and their daily routine drastically altered by the prospect of paying to the government in taxes a high percentage of their earnings. Then it became rumored that congress would continue to go easy on the millions of small wage-earners—the mass of voters—and would seek from other sources the extra billions needed.

The house ways and means committee, of which Representative Robert L. Doughton (D. N. C.) is chairman, has heard many witnesses and numerous proposals during the hearings which are soon to result in a new revenue bill. The Treasury's suggestion of lowering exemptions, increasing rates on the smaller incomes, adding to the excise, estate, and gift taxes, as well as tightening up on corporation excess profits taxes, apparently was put out as a "feeler." It served to arouse wage earners to a realization that they will have to share the cost of current spending, but it did not find much favor in congress. Then the administration, through two of its more radical leaders—Federal Price Administrator Leon Henderson and Reserve Board Chairman Marriner Eccles—virtually repudiated the treasury plan for raising the 3½ billion dollars additional in taxes and proposed a more drastic excess profits tax and heavy excise taxes on consumer durable goods.

As if by pre-arrangement, the treasury thereafter sent to the ways and means committee a revised tax program, which contained the most drastic excess profits tax proposals yet made to congress. This plan would tax not only profits resulting from defense production, but all profits above an arbitrary ceiling of 10 per cent of invested capital. A similar but less severe plan was rejected by Congress last year in the drafting of the present excess profits law. Here is how the plan would work, as interpreted by "Business Week":

"A corporation which earned between 4% and 10% on invested capital during the base period 1936-39 would be granted a credit rate of the same percentage, free of excess-profits taxes. On the net income between the credit rate and 15% of invested capital, a corporation would pay an excess-profits tax of 33%; on the next 15% a tax of 32%; and on everything above that 65%. Corporations earning less than 4% in the base period would be required to pay only a flat 10% tax on profits above their earning rate in the base period up to 4%. Corporations earning more than 10% in the base period would be granted a maximum credit of 10%. New capital bringing total invested capital up to $500,000 would also be allowed a profit rate of 10%, but additions to capital above $500,000 would be allowed only 8%."

Administration forces apparently are united on the so-called investor plan to squeeze every dollar possible out of industry. How lenient Congress will be on the small wage earner remains to be seen. Economists and tax experts have advocated spreading the tax burden as widely as possible, as a safeguard against Government extravagance and also against inflation.

Consideration by the Senate Finance Committee will follow the presentation of a bill to the House.

Federal taxpayers and investors are cautioned to watch the development of this tax legislation and to write to their Representatives and Senators expressing their views regarding the various provisions under discussion.

AP SCRIBE IS OUT ON LIMB

By HERB BARKER

New York, Oct. 10—(AP)—Climbing out on the football limb and waiting patiently for the drop that's sure to come:

Rice-Tulane: No weakness in this Tulane machine that anyone has discovered so far. Maybe Rice's Owls will come up with the answer but this corner, for one, will have to be shown. Tulane.

Texas-Oklahoma: Dana Bible's Texans boast a good line, a flock of talented backs headed by Pete Layden and Jack Crain, and plenty of scoring punch. Oklahoma's played only one game and remains a question mark. Maybe it'll be an exclamation point after Saturday. Until then, Texas.

Georgia Tech-Notre Dame: Tech scared the ears off Notre Dame in that 26-20 business a year ago. This may be another scare but there appears to be too much depth in this Notre Dame squad for the engineers in the long run. Notre Dame.

North Carolina-Fordham: Fordham nearly got its ears pinned back by S. M. U. a week ago. Maybe that experience will do the highly-touted Rams some good. They rate a pronounced nod over North Carolina in any case.

Minnesota-Illinois: Obviously Illinois is improved but this doesn't look like the spot for a Gopher beating. Minnesota.

Yale-Penn: The season probably will see no more spirited rally than Yale's 21-point second half drive to beat Virginia. But Penn seems to have unlimited punch. We'll take Penn.

Navy-Lafayette: Shouldn't be more than a good workout for Navy.

New York University-Texas A. and M.: No real line on the Texans yet but this ballot is cast for them.

Michigan-Pitt: The Panthers may make it close, but even that is subject to doubt. Michigan.

Indiana-Texas Christian: Indiana's lost two tough ones; Christian's won two of the same variety. All of which means precisely nothing. Out of the hat, Texas Christian.

Army-Virginia Military: Taking Army but with no real assurance.

Northwestern-Wisconsin: The Badgers will have to do better than they did against Marquette to even stay in this ball game. Northwestern.

Temple-Georgetown: Stringing along with Temple.

Dartmouth-Colgate: Looks like a real battle. Colgate, narrowly.

Harvard-Cornell: Seems Harvard won't prove just how good it is until November. Cornell.

Princeton-Columbia: Plenty of savvy and no oph on this typical Lou Little-coached Columbia outfit. Picking Columbia.

Syracuse-Holy Cross: The Orange wasted its opportunities in the Cornell game. Awaiting proof of a change in that direction, Holy Cross.

Michigan State-Marquette: On what it showed last week, Marquette.

Nebraska-Kansas: The Huskers may have real trouble here. Still, Nebraska.

Missouri-Kansas State: Taking Missouri.

Southern California-Oregon: Maybe the Trojans can bounce back after that Ohio State rout but it's doubtful. Oregon.

LINK-ULFERS

On Tuesday afternoon at 1:30 o'clock, at the United Brethren parsonage in Leaf River occurred the marriage of Miss Eleanor B. Ulfers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Martin M. Ulfers, and Lloyd E. Link, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Link residing east of town. The single ring ceremony was performed by Rev. R. V. Strole. They were attended by the groom's sister and her husband, Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Coffman of German Valley.

The bride wore a street-length dress of soldier blue silk crepe, matching hat and silver and black accessories. Her corsage was of red rosebuds.

Mrs. Link was graduated from the Barton high school in Barton, Arkansas in 1932 and has been employed in the Atkins drug store.

The groom was graduated from Forreston high school in 1933 and his occupation is farming.

Mr. and Mrs. Link left on a trip to Texas and Mexico and will reside in this community on their return.

Breakfast Party

On Tuesday morning about 8:30 o'clock fifteen ladies were hurriedly rushed from their household duties to be entertained at a "Jalopy Bust-Up" at the Irvin Viemeier home. A delicious breakfast was served by the hostesses, Mrs. Clarence Rademaker and Mrs. Minnie Stukenberg. Prizes were won by Mrs. Victor Conkey, Mrs. Donald Hiteman, Mrs. Bertha DeGraff and Mrs. Paul Beebe. Following the breakfast, the guests were returned to their homes to resume their duties.

Old Age Assistance Awards To Be Larger

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 10—(AP)—Revised budgets which will result in increases in some old age assistance awards and provide a standard for the new aid to dependent children's program have been completed by the Division of Public Assistance, Superintendent Fletcher Kettle announced today.

Old age assistance awards, which now average about $23 a month, will be readjusted to the new scale as rapidly as possible, Kettle said. The first children's aid awards to be determined on the basis of the new budget will be mailed out later this month.

Kettle declined to make public the new budget standard but said he expected the old age assistance average awards would be increased substantially.

Food costs and other expenses were studied in each county by an advisory committee of home economics specialists before the revised budget was drafted, he said.

Delay in Harvest of Soybeans Threatens Industry in Decatur

Decatur, Ill., Oct. 10—(AP)—Recent heavy rains throughout Illinois, delaying the harvest of the new soybean crop, today threatened to bring about a complete shutdown of Decatur's soybean processing plants by the end of the week.

With one company having shut down yesterday, plant officials said another firm would close today and the remaining two were expected to be without beans after Saturday.

The plants affected were the A. E. Staley Manufacturing Co., Archer-Daniels-Midland Corp., Decatur Soy Products Co., and Spencer Kellogg & Sons.

Shipments this month have totaled only two or three cars daily compared with 200 to 400 daily two years ago.

Rockford Taverns Given Clean Bill by State Official

Rockford, Ill., Oct. 10—(AP)—Brig. Gen. John M. Willis said today that Rockford taverns are "above average" and State Attorney Max A. Weston declared that local authorities had learned "nothing new" from Illinois Liquor Control Commission officials.

Commission Secretary William M. Devine was called before the Winnebago county grand jury yesterday after which Weston said the state official had revealed "nothing new" to local authorities.

Devine and Commissioner Charles J. Fleck, also of Chicago, had previously reported that conditions in taverns near Illinois army camps were good, except in Rockford, which is near the army's big Camp Grant, recruit reception and medical training centers.

Brigadier General Willis, with whom the two members of the commission conferred, said "we consider conditions about Rockford and vicinity to be far above those found at most army posts. A board of officers appointed several months ago to check conditions in this area has reported them as well above average."

After conferences with Melvin Smith, chairman of the Winnebago county liquor commission, and Charles J. Weston, Rockford police chief, Devine said he had "not meant to single out Rockford as an example and our only purpose is to cooperate in improvement of conditions."

DAVEY DAY MEETS BOB MONTGOMERY IN RING

Chicago, Oct. 10 —(AP)—Davey Day of Chicago, 29-year-old veteran of 71 fights, will go into the ring tonight as the underdog in his 10-round battle with Bob Montgomery, Philadelphia negro.

Montgomery has won 10 straight victories this year, including a decision over Lew Jenkins, lightweight champion in New York, in a non-title fight last May. Day hasn't had a fight since outpointing Billy Marquart in Chicago last February.

Mrs. Mary Lang, Forreston, announces the approaching marriage of her daughter Alice, to Leland A. Potter, son of Mr. and Mrs. Irving Potter of Mount Morris. The nuptial service will be solemnized Saturday, Oct. 18.

Mrs. Lee Ridenour entertained at dinner Sunday in honor of her husband who was observing his birthday anniversary on that date. Present were Mrs. Rosa Gibbs, Mr. and Mrs. Tom Cherry of Aurora, Mrs. Bertha Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Few and Mr. and Mrs. Will Few.

Red Cross Roll Call

A meeting of officers of the local branch of the Red Cross and members, all who have contributed to the community chest are members, has been called for Tuesday evening, Oct. 14, at 7:30 in the Legion's rooms. This year the Red Cross has had to comply with the policy of the national organization and withdraw from the community chest and will conduct their own roll call by a house to house canvass from November 1 to 27, inclusive. This will necessitate the help of a goodly number of volunteer workers and those who cannot help with the sewing and knitting for the Red Cross are given this opportunity for service. Several chapter officers will be present to assist in planning this membership drive and anyone willing to assist, even for a short time, during the roll call are asked to contact Mrs. Agnes Price, secretary; Mrs. Mary Middlekauf, treasurer, or Mrs. Pearl Davis, chairman. The county quota has been doubled and the cooperation of everyone is needed.

The long awaited materials for the remainder of the county quota for war relief have arrived and are being cut at the Polo garment factory. More workers are needed to complete this work by December 1. The Legion's rooms are open every Wednesday from 1:00 p. m. to 4 p. m. for this work. A quilt is being pieced and will be ready for tying next Wednesday.

The nursery classes are having a very good attendance and much information in nursing and first aid has been received. The lectures by Dr. C. J. Price and Dr. Murray Dumont on communicable diseases and pre-natal care were very much enjoyed and appreciated by the student body. The inhalator, donated to the village by the American Legion post, will be demonstrated at the afternoon and evening classes on Monday, Oct. 13 by Police Officer Palmer and assistant fire chief Al Davis. This demonstration is open to the public and visitors to the class are always welcome. The afternoon demonstration will be at 2:30 and in the evening at 8 o'clock.

Woman's Club Met

It was an enthusiastic and large group of members and friends who gathered at the home of Mrs. M. C. Small on West Hill street for the October Woman's club meeting, the first of the season. In the absence of Mrs. Carroll Boston, president, the vice president, Miss Mary Wishard, was in charge of the business session which preceded the program.

Two important announcements were made following action at the board meeting. The first of these was that the finance committee, headed by Mrs. George Neher, had made arrangements for a benefit movie at the Lamb theater on Saturday evening, Oct. 18. There will be two excellent films, "The Great Commandment", and "Her First Beau." Each member is responsible for the sale of at least four tickets.

Then, because of the nature of the November meeting, a public health program, it was voted to hold it as an open and mixed meeting in the town hall on Monday evening, November 3 at 8 o'clock. The Society for the Prevention and Control of Cancer is sending an authoritative doctor to address the meeting and there will also be a film on this disease shown. There will be no admission charge to anyone.

There will be representatives from the Mount Morris club at the first regional institute to be held at LaSalle on Wednesday, October 15, and at the Ogle County Federation which will be held on Tuesday, Oct. 21, at the Brethren church in Polo.

Because it was the first meeting of the year and new members and guests were present to give everyone an idea of the plans of the various departments, the entire program was devoted to a symposium of departmental committees.

As chairman of American citizenship, Mrs. H. K. Marcott expressed the desirability that there be a flag at all club meetings and that they be opened with a pledge of allegiance to it. It was suggested that a patriotic revival for young and old be started to bring back the meaning of the flag and the freedom of America compared to other nations. In answer to the question of what women can do to help bring about this, it was pointed out that a review of the historical background of our nation and a return to religion are both important steps.

Mrs. T. J. Wilson, conservation chairman, told of the work of the Illinois clubs in planting acres of pine trees in a southern Illinois memorial park with funds raised by individual clubs' contributions. She mentioned that with the approach of winter all club women should remember to feed the birds.

The chairman of the department of education, Mrs. H. A. Hoff, was not present so her report was given by Miss Mary McColl. In it a three-point program was outlined: (1) emphasize personal development of the individual; (2) develop home and family relationship; and (3) stress economic efficiency. Women's clubs can work towards these objectives by visiting the schools, particularly during National Education week, November 9-15, which will be observed by the local Parent-Teachers' association. They should compare its system and program with that used by other schools and study school legislation, working towards a closer cooperation between the home and the school.

Through sponsoring Girl Scout and Brownie organizations another channel for furthering youthful education is opened.

In her duties as chairman of the garden department, Mrs. L. G. Schaar has appointed Mrs. L. A. Watt, Mrs. George Neher, Mrs. Gerald Hough and Mrs. Francis Asp to serve with her on the garden committee. At their recent meeting they outlined several major projects which they plan to carry out during the year. To offer an attractive resting place for tourists, they have started tentative arrangements to have a park area landscaped in the district between Brayton road and Hill street. They have in mind the triangle north of the Waddelow property that belongs to the Brayton orchards. Already highway officials have pledged their cooperation and before this project is finished, tables will be placed on the lot and a desirable spot will be made of it.

This group will also investigate the planting of flowers and shrubbery on the village property north of the village hall. They plan to obtain the lecture and slides available from Better Homes and Gardens to show at a future meeting. For the spring flower show considerable effort will be made to make it bigger and better than ever.

Mrs. Etta Rittenhouse, chairman of the Illinois Clubwoman, reviewed the current issue of that publication and Mrs. M. C. Small, chairman of Indian welfare, explained the change of policy in that department this year. Instead of asking the Indians to whom loans are made for higher education purposes to pay back the full amount of the loans, they will be expected to pay back only one-half of it. It is an objective of the federation that all clubs will eventually contribute from $1 to $10 annually to their fund to which the local club is an annual donor.

This will be Mrs. Elmer Paul's first year as Junior Woman's club chairman and sponsor and she reported that the young women's first meeting this season will be held Oct. 20. One of their main objectives is to increase the group's membership. They plan to assist in Red Cross projects throughout the winter.

It was Mrs. Ed Rolwe's suggestions, as head of the law observance committee, that each woman study new laws and try to understand why we have them. She said that the more people there are, the more complicated the living with least encroachment on one another's rights and that law is best observed when the reason for its existence is understood fully. Attorney Ed Rolwe will be speaker at the March meeting of the club and any questions members have will be considered at that time.

As music chairman, Mrs. Donovan Mills told of plans to organize a chorus this year, with Miss Helen Lou Miller of the grade school faculty as director. All clubs are urged by the state department to study music of our neighboring countries to help find a common basis for understanding each other.

National health policies should be familiar to all club members, according to Mrs. Luce Meeker, public health chairman, who urged the women to cooperate with legislative projects along this line. A brief history of the club since its organization on October 14, 1920 was read by Mrs. Elmer Snowberger as the concluding number on the program.

During the social hour which followed, the new teachers were introduced and Miss Mary McColl and Mrs. Donovan Mills poured.

IT'S STILL MISSISSIPPI

Name of the Mississippi river has been spelled four different ways since its discovery. Its Indian spelling was Meche-sebe. Laval changed it to Michispe; Labatte changed it to Missipi; and Marquette gave it its present spelling.

Although he made it famous by his poems, Stephen Foster never saw the Suwannee river.

Expect Warehouses and Elevators Will Be Jammed to Limit

Harvest of Last Crop of Year Adds to Storage Needs

Chicago, Oct. 10.—(AP)—With the nation's vacant commercial grain storage space near exhaustion, harvest of the last 1941 crops, corn and soybeans, is expected to cram elevators and warehouses to capacity, trade statistics indicated today.

Because little room remains, many elevator firms already temporarily are out of the market for grain to be shipped into terminals. Although little of the huge corn crop goes to terminals for storage, scarcely a cubic inch of usable space is expected to be available after huskers are finished.

Elevator men estimate at least 10 per cent of the available room should be kept open for handling stored grain, particularly this year because of wet harvests. As a result, the latest figure, showing commercial storage space at terminals 86 per cent occupied, means there is only a slight margin of usable space.

May be Lasting
Because record-breaking supplies are being held back in temporary storage on farms and elsewhere, this crowded condition at terminals is likely to prevail for some time, grain men said. Normal consumption makes steady inroads on supplies, especially of wheat, which takes up most room in elevators, but as long as stocks remain heavy on farms the space so vacated is likely to be filled almost immediately.

The crowding is a result of record supplies of grain, estimated at 6,500,000,000 bushels, new crop plus carryover, or about 300,000,000 more than available last year. To handle this, the nation has a limited commercial storage capacity of about 1,600,000,000 bushels. In addition, the government owns steel bins for 136,000,000 bushels.

Storage Space Increased
What cannot be housed in this space must be held on farms. To do this, producers have added the greatest amount of new storage space to their facilities since 1939. Much of the grain being stored is held as collateral for government loans. The government itself owns large stocks, particularly corn and wheat.

A price situation favorable for full use of storage capacity prevails. Elevator men now can buy any cereal at several cents a bushel discount under what they can sell it for future delivery.
